4 THINGS TO KNOW

Five arrested, gun recovered in Big Papi shooting in Dom Rep

David Ortiz was recovering in a Boston hospital.

Police in the Dominican Republic have arrested five people in the shooting of former Boston Red Sox star David Ortiz in a plot that authorities on Wednesday said was more complex than originally thought.

The arrests came as Ortiz, 43, recovered in a Boston hospital following a second round of surgery on Tuesday, according to his family, which said he was sitting up and had taken a few steps.

The plot to kill Ortiz, a national hero in the Dominican Republic, involved two men on a motorcycle working with two other groups of people in cars, said National Police Chief Ney Aldrin Bautista Almonte.

He also said the gun used in the shooting had been recovered.

"It didn't just involve two people, more people took part," Bautista told a press conference, adding that another person linked to the plot nicknamed "The Surgeon" still remained at large.

Ortiz, widely known as "Big Papi," is a sports legend in Boston for his role in three World Series baseball championships as well as his profane and inspiring remarks in the days after the 2013 Boston Marathon bombing.

He retired in 2016 after hitting 541 career home runs, which ranks 17th all-time in Major League Baseball.

Ortiz was shot in the torso on Sunday evening while seated at an open-air nightclub in Santo Domingo, the capital of his native country, after the gunman rolled up on a motorcycle. Ortiz's friend Jhoel Lopez, a television host, was also wounded in the shooting.

Police quickly arrested one suspect, identified as Eddy Feliz Garcia, who was detained and beaten by bystanders at the scene.

SECOND SURGERY IN BOSTON

Ortiz underwent a first round of surgery in Santo Domingo late on Sunday before being flown the following day to Boston's Massachusetts General Hospital, where he underwent more surgery.

A trauma and acute care surgeon was leading the team treating Ortiz, his wife, Tiffany Ortiz, said in a statement on Wednesday.

On Tuesday "and this morning, David was able to sit up as well as take some steps," she said on Wednesday. "His condition is guarded and he will remain in the [intensive care unit] for the coming days, but he is making good progress toward recovery."

Feliz appeared in court on Tuesday evening, charged with being an accomplice in the attempted murder of Ortiz. His lawyer, Deivi Solano, told reporters outside the court that the judge had agreed to postpone a hearing until Wednesday afternoon.

Justina Garcia, the mother of Feliz who remained in custody, told reporters the charges against her son were a "lie."

"They can't link it to him because he is not a criminal," she said. REUTERS

2 Gooding Jr. to turn himself in after groping allegation

Actor Cuba Gooding Jr. intends to turn himself in to New York City police after a woman accused him of groping her at a Manhattan bar over the weekend, NBC News reported on Wednesday, citing Gooding's representative. The Oscar-wining actor plans to present himself to the NYPD's sex crimes unit on Thursday, according to NBC News. The woman, who was not identified, alleged that Gooding touched her breasts at the bar on Sunday night, the network said, citing law enforcement sources. In a video posted on TMZ.com, Gooding denied that he had groped anyone. The actor said he went to a bar, talked and took pictures with people, and left. "I trust the system," he said as he walked through Los Angeles International Airport, adding that there was a tape "that shows what really happened." REUTERS

3 US to deploy troops to 'Fort Trump' in Poland

President Donald Trump pledged to Polish President Andrzej Duda on Wednesday that he will deploy 1,000 U.S. troops to Poland, a step sought by Warsaw to deter potential aggression from Russia. Despite their strong show of unity, Trump disagreed with Duda's attempt to force the retirement of some Polish Supreme Court judges, a decision last year that prompted protests. "No," Trump said when asked if he supported the move. Trump announced the troop deployment at a joint news conference with Duda in the White House Rose Garden shortly after the two leaders signed a joint declaration affirming defense cooperation. Duda, who is considering naming the U.S. installation "Fort Trump," said the new influx of troops was needed because of Moscow's past aggression against Poland and to help solidify his country's ties to the West. 4 Ex-coach avoids prison in college admissions scandal

A former Stanford University sailing coach avoided prison on Wednesday in the first sentencing to result from the U.S. college admissions scandal after admitting he took bribes to help children of wealthy parents gain admission to the school. John Vandemoer, 41, was sentenced by U.S. District Judge Rya Zobel in Boston to six months of home confinement, rejecting prosecutors' request for a 13-month prison term after he pleaded guilty in March to racketeering conspiracy. Vandemoer is among 50 people, including actresses Lori Loughlin and Felicity Huffman, who were charged in March with participating in a vast scheme overseen by California college admissions consultant William "Rick" Singer. Prosecutors said parents paid Singer more than $25 million to bribe coaches at major universities to help their children gain admission as fake athletic recruits. REUTERS

House panel approves permanent Sept. 11 victims' compensation

The legislation was approved a day after comedian Jon Stewart ripped Congress.

A U.S. congressional committee on Wednesday unanimously approved legislation to extend the fund compensating first responders to the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks on the World Trade Center for the next 70 years, a move that would avoid steep benefit reductions over a lack of money.

The House Judiciary Committee acted one day after television personality and comedian Jon Stewart castigated lawmakers at a hearing for their slow response to helping New York City firefighters, police officers and other emergency personnel who rushed to the scene of the attacks that left two of Manhattan's most well-known skyscrapers in rubble.

> "Your indifference costs these men and women their most valuable commodity — time." Jon Stewart

The fund also helps construction workers and victims of the attack.

"Your indifference costs these men and women their most valuable commodity — time," Stewart said to a hearing room packed with lawmakers and first responders, including those now suffering from cancer, respiratory problems and other serious health issues as a result of inhaling contaminated air nearly 18 years ago.

Before Wednesday's vote, House Judiciary Committee Chairman Jerrold Nadler, whose constituents live in New York City, said that despite federal officials' statements that the air was safe in the aftermath of the attack, "more than 95,000 responders and survivors are sick."

The bill, which next goes to the full House for debate, would extend the victims' compensation fund to 2090, putting it on the same terms as a health program for World Trade Center victims. It also would reverse any benefit cuts due to insufficient funds.

Also on Wednesday, Senate Democratic Leader Chuck Schumer of New York pleaded for fast passage in that chamber.

On Tuesday, Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell was asked by a reporter whether he would advance the legislation.

"I hadn't looked at that lately. I'll have to. We've always dealt with that in a compassionate way and I assume we will again," McConnell said.

In the past, some lawmakers have complained about the cost of helping 9/11 victims at a time of severe U.S. budget deficits.

"It's shameful. There's no other word for it. Shameful that our brave first responders have had to suffer the indignity of delay after delay after delay," Schumer said in a speech to the Senate.

Why Aren't Doctors Telling Knee Arthritis Sufferers About These Two Often Successful Treatments?

Two Advanced Medical Treatments Every Knee Arthritis Sufferer Needs To Know - Before Or After Knee Replacement Surgery

NYC -If you suffer with knee arthritis pan, you have probably already tried many treatments... especially countless pain medications. With minimal or no results

Are there any better options?

Thankfully, advancements in science and technology come extremely fast. And now there are two very good options for knee arthritis a lot of knee arthritis sufferers have never heard of.

Before we get into the two treatments, please understand this...

NYC Pain MD is a REAL medical clinic that has treated thousands of knee arthritis sufferers. Patients travel from all over the tai-state to be treated at one of their clinics because they want the best medical treatments available.

What you are about to discover are two REAL medical treatments. Not miracle cures you see on infomercials or on the internet.

Know this fact: There is no cure for arthritis. But there are these two treatments that have already helped thousands of knee arthritis sufferers - possibly just like you.

#1 Viscosupplementation

Here's what you need to know about viscosupplementation - the good and the bad....

When you have arthritis, you suffer a decrease in the lubrication fluids in your knee. In other words, your knee joints basically "dries up."

The lubricating fluid that decreases is called "synovial fluid."

Pharmaceutical companies (with the help of scientists) can now make synovial fluid-like compounds that... during viscosupplementaiton treatments... doctors precisely inject directly into the knee joint.

This helps replace the lubricating fluid to the knee joint - allowing it to move more freely and smoothly and often decreasing or even eliminating the pain.

What Results Can Be Expected?

Like all medical treatments, the results vary and can not be predicted. But many knee arthritis sufferers get dramatic results. It is not uncommon for patients to either postpone knee replacement surgery for years... or even permanently cancel it.

But There Is A BIG Problem

The key is the treatment must be EXTREMELY PRECISE. If the procedure is slightly off, the formula will not get into the knee joint and the treatment will not work.

That's why the experts at NYC Pain MD use advanced digital imaging so they visually guide the injection accurately into the knee joint during the treatment.

Research shows that performing joint injections without imaging miss the joint as much as 30% of the time.

If you have had prior viscosupplementation without this special digital imaging without good results - this may be the exact reason why.

That's why NYC Pain MD even takes it one step further. They do not just use one form of advanced imaging during treatment - they use two in their "double confirmation" process. This is to ensure patients get the best possible results.

Another Important Factor

Viscosupplementation "medicines" also come in several different formulas.

Just like all medications, some people respond better to one than another. While many doctors only use one formula, the experts at NYC Pain MD use several and great effort is taken to figure out what the best one is for you.

What Should You Do If Viscosupplementation Fails?

#2 Radiofrequency Neurotomy

This treatment is called, "Radiofrequncy Neurotomy." RF for short

RF is a procedure that is based on the theory that blocking the nerve supply to the painful area may alleviate pain and restore function.

Several branches of nerves that surround the knee are known as "Genicular nerves."

Radiofrequncy waves are delivered to the Genicular nerves under advanced imaging to "block" the nerves.

Two procedures are performed. First, a test, diagnostic "G Block" procedure is done to determine if the procedure is going to decrease pain and improve function.

If this first "test" procedure is successful, Genicular Neurotomy (GRF) is performed for long term relief.

Is It Safe?

Research has shown this procedure to be safe and effective.

One study published November 4, 2010 in the journal Pain found that RF treated subjects on average "achieved at least 50% knee pain relief at 1, 4 and 12 weeks, respectively. No patient reported a post-procedure adverse event during the follow-up period. RF neurotomy of Genicular nerves leads to significant pain reduction and functional improvement in a subset of elderly chronic knee OA pain, and thus may be an effective treatment in such cases."

Who Should Try This Treatment?

RF should be considered after other treatments, such as anti-inflammatory pain medication, physical rehab or viscosupplementation do not offer good enough results.

RF may be utilized before resorting to total knee replacement. RF allows many patients to avoid knee replacement surgery.

But - RF has also been found effective AFTER knee replacement surgery when the patient still feels pain.

The pain after a failed knee replacement surgery can be debilitating and this procedure may be the only thing that helps and give you after surgery relief.

Advanced Imaging Allows Doctors To Pin-Point Treatments And Relieve Knee Arthritis Pain

Advanced imaging allows doctors to successfully inject special lubricating gel directly into knee joint relieving pain
Failed treatment: Knee injection done without advanced imaging lubricating fluid completely misses the joint space

Science rescues knee arthritis sufferers? Research shows joint injections done without advanced imaging misses the joint about 30% of the time. Now doctors can put lubricating fluid directly into the arthritis joint that may alleviate pain and restore function to many.

What To Do Next If You Are In Pain

NYC Pain MD offers a limited number of complimentary knee arthritis t screenings every month. These screenings are a way for knee arthritis sufferers to get their questions answered and see if they are a candidate for one of the cutting-edge treatments offered at NYC Pain MD. If you would like to schedule a screening, just call 877-380-8537.

The screenings fill up fast every month. This screening is no cost and there absolutely no obligation.

Legislators reach agreement to protect tenants from rent hikes

The current rent control and stabilization law is set to expire Saturday.

NATE HOMAN
letters@metro.us

State legislators have seemingly struck a deal to enact protective measures for renters in New York City and the state.

The rent protection deal, which is expected to go to a vote in the legislature this week, includes a universal rent control provision to prevent future disputes by making the tenant rules permanent and not subject to regular renewal by lawmakers.

The current law governing rent control and rent stabilization rules protecting tenants in older, multi-unit apartment buildings in and around New York City is set to expire Saturday. The legislation spells out how much a landlord can raise the rent and also restrict evictions.

"These reforms give New Yorkers the strongest tenant protections in history," Senate Majority Leader Andrea Stewart-Cousins and Assembly Speaker Carl E. Heastie said in a joint statement published by the New York Times.

"For too long, power has been tilted in favor of landlords and these measures finally restore equity and extend protections to tenants across the state."

The existing rent control laws, which cover roughly half of New York City renters, are celebrated by tenants, are a source of frustration for the city's powerful real estate industry, and aid renters looking for an affordable apartment. Real estate groups are less than thrilled about the bill package.

> "For too long, power has been tilted in favor of landlords and these measures finally restore equity and extend protections to tenants across the state."
> Senate Majority Leader Andrea Stewart-Cousins

"This legislation fails to address the city's housing crisis and will lead to disinvestment in the city's private sector rental stock consigning hundreds of thousands of rent-regulated tenants to living in buildings that are likely to fall into disrepair," Taxpayers for an Affordable New York, a coalition of four real estate groups, said in a statement.

"This legislation will not create a single new affordable housing unit, improve the vacancy rate or improve enforcement against the few dishonest landlords who tend to dominate the headlines."

According to responsiblerentreform.org, the costs of owning buildings, including fixed costs such as taxes and fuel, have increased by more than twice the rate of rent increases provided by the New York City Rent Guidelines Board over the last 20 years.

New York City Mayor Bill de Blasio called the bills "a remarkable achievement that will halt displacement, harassment and unjust evictions."

"The Senate and the Assembly are taking a massive step in the right direction," campaign coordinator of Housing Justice for All Cea Weaver said.

"We have a long way to go to reach a point where every tenant in New York is protected, but this is a big step forward to correct decades of injustice between tenants and landlords."

Gov. Andrew Cuomo said he is not interested in any debate over the new tenant laws. "There is no negotiation. I will sign the best bill they can pass," he said.

Trump shields census docs as Congress votes to hold two in contempt

Congress voted to hold Wilbur Ross and William Barr in contempt.

President Donald Trump asserted executive privilege on Wednesday to keep under wraps documents on adding a citizenship question to the 2020 U.S. census, defying a House panel's subpoena in another move to stonewall Democratic lawmakers' investigations.

Despite Trump's assertion of the legal doctrine, the House of Representatives Committee on Oversight and Reform pressed forward and voted to hold two members of Trump's Cabinet — Commerce Secretary Wilbur Ross and Attorney General William Barr — in contempt of Congress over the census matter.

Asked about the issue, Trump told reporters at the White House: "When you have a census and you're not allowed to talk about whether or not somebody's a citizen or not, that doesn't sound so good to me. ... It's totally ridiculous that we would have a census without asking."

The fight over adding a citizenship question to the census presents high stakes for both Trump's fellow Republicans and the Democrats, with the 2020 U.S. elections looming. The U.S. Supreme Court is due to rule by the end of this month in the Trump administration's appeal of a judge's ruling blocking the addition of the question as a violation of federal law.

> "When you have a census and you're not allowed to talk about whether or not somebody's a citizen or not, that doesn't sound so good to me. ... It's totally ridiculous that we would have a census without asking."
> Donald Trump

The judge's ruling came in a lawsuit by a group of states including New York and immigrant rights organizations arguing that the inclusion of a citizenship question would frighten immigrants and Latinos into abstaining from participating in the decennial national population count because of fear of immigration enforcement.

Critics have said Republicans want to engineer a deliberate population undercount in Democratic-leaning areas where many immigrants live in order to gain seats in the House. The census population count is used to allot seats in the House and to guide distribution of billions of dollars of federal funds.

The Oversight Committee is looking into how the Trump administration devised its plan to add a citizenship question. The committee has said that Ross, whose department runs the census, told the panel that he added the question "solely" at the request of the Justice Department.

However, committee Democrats have said documents show that Ross "began a secret campaign" to add the citizenship question to the census questionnaire shortly after taking office and months before being formally asked to do so by the Justice Department. REUTERS

Zuckerberg may have known of questionable privacy practices: WSJ

REUTERS

Facebook emails appear to show Chief Executive Officer Mark Zuckerberg's involvement in discussions about its much criticized privacy practices, the Wall Street Journal reported on Wednesday, citing people familiar with the matter.

The newspaper said reporters had not seen the emails and relied on unnamed people. The report said the communications "appear to show Chief Executive Mark Zuckerberg's connection to potentially problematic privacy practices at the company." Shares of the Menlo Park, California-based company were down 1.8 percent at $174.9 in early afternoon trading.

The emails have raised concerns within the company that they could be a public relations problem, at least, for Facebook, the WSJ reported, citing one of the people familiar with the matter.

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) has been investigating allegations that Facebook inappropriately shared information belonging to 87 million users with the now-defunct British political consulting firm Cambridge Analytica.

The FTC and the Department of Justice, which enforce antitrust laws in the United States, are also gearing up to investigate whether tech giants Amazon.com Inc., Apple Inc., Facebook and Alphabet's Google misuse their massive market power.

The company's move to reach a speedy settlement of the FTC investigation is in part because of the emails, according to the WSJ report. The Journal said it could not determine what emails the FTC has requested and how many of them relate to Zuckerberg.

Facebook said it has fully cooperated with the FTC investigation to date and provided tens of thousands of documents, emails and files.

"Facebook and its executives, including Mark, at all times strive to comply with all applicable law, and at no point did Mark or any other Facebook employee knowingly violate the company's obligations under the FTC consent order," a company spokesman said in an email.

The company has previously said it is preparing to pay as much as $5 billion in a settlement with U.S. regulators.

The WSJ report said it could not be determined whether any of the emails reveal practices that violated the 2012 agreement.

IT'S TIME TO GROUND HELICOPTERS FLYING OVER NYC

OP-ED

JOHN O.,
NYC RESIDENT

Firefighters work at the scene of a helicopter crash atop a building in Midtown Manhattan on June 10, 2019. GETTY IMAGES

Helicopters over such a densely populated area as Manhattan pose a clear and present danger for those of us who live here. Unfortunately, when they malfunction they drop straight down as there is no ability to "glide" to open space. I will not even mention the issue with air pollution and noise from our downtown (Wall Street) heliport, which should have been closed years ago.

The skies over Manhattan constantly buzz with helicopters carrying tourists, business people, traffic reporters, news reporters, NYPD personnel (on routine patrol) and others. Crashes are not uncommon.

A crash in October 2011 in the East River killed a British woman visiting the city for her 40th birthday. Three other passengers were injured.

A helicopter on a sightseeing tour of Manhattan crashed into the Hudson River in July 2007, shaking up the eight people onboard but injuring no one.

In June 2005, two helicopters crashed into the East River in the same week. Eight people were injured in one crash, including some banking executives. The other, a sightseeing flight, hit the water shortly after takeoff, injuring six tourists and the pilot.

In March 2018, there was a helicopter crash in the East River on a Sunday that killed all five passengers onboard. The pilot later stated that he had thought of possibly making an emergency landing in Central Park (located in one of the densest areas of Manhattan).

Manhattan needs to be an area over which no helicopters can fly, and heliports located in Manhattan need to be closed.

Cops searching for anti-Semitic spray-painter in Harlem

NYPD

Police on Wednesday released surveillance footage of a man who they believe spray-painted anti-Semitic statements on the front door of a building in Harlem.

The incident occurred Monday night at around 11:11 p.m, at a medical office located at 119 West 124 Street.

The suspect fled the scene, and police are looking to the public to help identify the suspect, why they say is wanted for criminal mischief in connection to the incident. The NYPD shared surveillance footage of the suspect on social media in hopes someone will come forward with more information.

Cops described the suspect as a 5-foot-9 Hispanic male, weighing around 200 pounds who was last seen wearing a royal blue Adidas jersey, black jeans, and black boots. He is seen carrying a bag and smoking a cigarette, in surveillance video.

Recently anti-Semitic crimes seem to have become a more common occurrence in New York City, so much so that according to a recent press release from the Mayor's office, hate crimes in the city have increased by 64 percent since last year. Additionally, 60 percent of those incidents have been anti-Semitic hate crimes.

If you or anyone you know has information about the identity of this man, contact NYPD's Crime Stoppers Hotline at 1-800-577-TIPS (8477) or for Spanish, 1-888-57-PISTA (74782).

If calling isn't an option, you can text tips to 274637 (CRIMES) then enter TIP577. You can also submit tips on Twitter and the website p3tips.com. Everything is confidential.

'I'm trying to work on projects that leave positive messages' ANNE HATHAWAY

The 36-year-old actress stars in "The Hustle" with Rebel Wilson.

PATRICIA CARRANZA, MWN
letters@metro.us

The Oscar winner for "Les Miserables" (2012) returns to the big screen with a remake of the comedy "Dirty Rotten Scoundrels" (1988) starring Steve Martin and Michael Caine. In an interview with Metro, the actress spoke about her performance and the role of women in Hollywood.

What was it like to work with an actress like Rebel Wilson?
Rebel shines! When I met her, she surprised me because she is a reserved and very relaxed woman compared to what we see in the movies. I was very impressed by her talent because she has a great gift. She can lie and you will believe everything.

Do you think Josephine Chesterfield is very different from any other character you have played before?
I think so. Since I starred in "The Princess Diaries" (2001), I was always listed as a sweet, clueless girl. And then came "Les Miserables," where I suffered a lot. But in this film I play Josephine, who is very different from my other roles. She is a confident woman who always has everything under control. She is greedy and calculating. That's the incredible thing about being an actress, to be able to present new characters to the audience.

Do you like to delve into the development of your characters?
I always do it. When I was getting to know this character, we discussed whether it was necessary to present Josephine's childhood in the movie and put some drama into the story in order to make sense of her work as a scam artist. But I told Rebel that maybe that was not necessary to show why she was like that.

Do you think women are empowered in the film?
I think we raise a bit more awareness. I remember that my parents told me, "Your gender should never limit you, there is nothing you cannot do and nobody can belittle you for being a woman." And I grew up with that idea. But it was a shock for me when I went out into the real world and realized it's not like that. Because not everyone thinks the same way. I think that today everyone is talking about equality, mainly in Hollywood, and I think it is a moment of change. I do believe that in the last two years we have seen something is happening with female characters.

What happened with the movie's classification?
It was something for which Rebel fought a lot. At first the film had an "R" rating, which means that it is restricted to children under 17, which was totally absurd because it does not feature images or vocabulary not suitable for teenagers. As you know, Rebel — in addition to being an actress — is a lawyer. She sought a way to change the classification. She mentioned how ridiculous it was that the first film of 1988 starring men had a "PG" rating, which seemed ridiculous and sexist. In the end, she was successful and achieved the "PG-13" classification because most of our audience are adolescents and the jokes are directed at them.

Throughout your career you have played many characters. But which do you enjoy doing the most: dramas, comedies or science fiction?
I had never thought about that. I think what I like most is having a job [laughs]. I really like to have a balance in my career. It's funny because I remember when we filmed "Interstellar" and I had a lot of drama around me, there was a scene where I really felt alone. When we finished, Chris (Christopher Nolan, the film's director) gave me a hug and I thought, "I really need to do a comedy." But I love dramas.

What kind of comedies do you like to perform in?
I always seek to work on projects that leave positive messages. Life is so hard that it is great to see a good story that makes you feel comfortable and that you can watch as a family.

Wilco's Glenn Kotche on the band's inventive Solid Sound Festival

The festival returns later this month to MASS MoCA.
PAT KING

It's okay to not be a fan of overcrowded summer music festivals. They're really not for everyone, and having played their fair share of big, overblown impersonal fests over the years indie-rock greats Wilco have been trying to redefine what they can be with their long-running Solid Sound Festival at MASS MoCA in North Adams, Massachusetts.

Started in 2010, the festival has been put on by the band almost every other year at the large modern-art museum for three full days of bands, comedians, art installations and one-of-a-kind performances, hand-picked by the band members themselves.

"There are a lot of really, really big festivals in the world now. But the big festivals, to me, I don't think they are very musical," explains Jeff Tweedy, the chief singer and songwriter of Wilco, in the documentary "Every Other Summer," about the creation of the festival. "The only real desire was to make a festival that we wouldn't be miserable at."

This year, the festival will include performances by Wilco (playing two sets), Courtney Barnett, The Feelies, Tortoise (playing two sets), Jonathan Richman, Cate Le Bon, The Minus 5, and Clipping, as well as many of the band's various side projects including a set from Jeff Tweedy & Friends. The festival also boasts an impressive comedy lineup including John Hodgman, Aparna Nooncherla, Jean Grae, Rhea Butcher, and the Doughboys.

According to the band's drummer, Glenn Kotche, this attention to building a festival that represents the band's individual interests and personalities gives fans a real glimpse into what makes Wilco one of the most unique and inventive American bands of the past three decades.

"One of the cool things about Wilco and our sound is that it's informed by who we are as individuals," explains Kotche by phone. "We're still mainly a vehicle for Jeff's lyrics. But all of our outside experiences over the years contribute to how the music keeps evolving and changing and what we bring to the band as well. It's so cool that we get to showcase those other sides of our musical interests at Solid Sound because the rabid fans can see how, 'Oh, that makes sense how that informs this and this,' and how it all pieces together to become what Wilco is. I really love that we're able to show all sides of the band."

One of Kotche's explorations at this year's festival, outside of performing with the band, will be his multimedia performance "Fishing" with actor Jon Hamm and dancer and director Danielle Agami. The performance will consist of Kotche performing an original score, with instruments that will also be found in his Sensory Percussion installation in the museum, with Hamm acting out a series of monologues and Agami performing moving pieces of choreography.

"None of us knew what it would be," Kotche says with a laugh. "It's like a really interesting, bizarre theater piece. The chemistry is great and I'm glad we get to do it at Solid Sound."

While Wilco is currently hitting the road for the first time since 2017 leading up to Solid Sound, the band generally tries to give longtime fans special, one-of-a-kind shows each year. In the past, they have done full album performances, dusted off rarities, and in one case, played a marathon all-covers set. This year, the band will be playing a special "Live Band Karaoke" set where fans can get up onstage and take a shot at the vast Wilco songbook.

"Nothing's off limits. Just because we haven't [played songs at] shows in the past, we're excited to play the entire catalog," says Kotche. "We'll be ready for whatever they throw at us."

The Solid Sound Festival will be at MASS MoCA from June 28-30. For more information, head over to solidsoundfestival.com.

Ideas for your family vacation in Miami

Surprise! Florida's hub for culture and cool is also kid-friendly. JODI MAILANDER FARRELL

Miami boasts a global reputation for its nightlife and arts scene, but the city is also packed with entertaining and enriching things to do as a family. Year-round subtropical warmth makes it a great getaway for making lifetime memories.

And there's an added benefit: Miami's diverse Latin American and Caribbean heritage translates into great opportunities to introduce children to different cultures.

Art

The former warehouse district of Wynwood is now a trendy, walkable 'hood perfect for exposing kids to the gritty art of graffiti (which also makes eye-catching backdrops for family photos). Wynwood Walls, 2520 NW 2nd Ave., is a good starting point. The ever-changing outdoor collection of huge, colorful murals by street artists from around the world is free and open to the public.

Before it turns into an adult block party after 10 p.m., Wynwood Yard, 56 NW 29th St., also is an inventive outdoor hub for kids to run around. There's an edible garden, music, a bar for parents, food trucks, and pop-up craft and food vendors selling everything from mac-and-cheese and empanadas to smoothies and vegetarian dishes. Taking a cue from Disney's FastPass, there's even a free food-ordering app called The Wynwood Yard, so you can avoid standing in line.

For dessert, cruise by the Asian-inspired food hall called 1-800-LUCKY at 143 NW 23rd St. to try its famous Taiyiki ice cream, served in fun, Instagram-ready, koi fish-shaped cones.

Film & Music

Miami Beach's SoundScape Park, 400 17th St., is a modern, landscaped space that's the perfect perch for viewing films and concerts projected onto the New World Center's soaring 7,000-square-foot outdoor wall. From November through May, free WALLCAST classical music concerts by New World Symphony mean you can grab a blanket and watch your kids do cartwheels while Beethoven and Brahms fill the air. During the same period, free movies – from favorites like "Big" and "Edward Scissorhands" to new releases – are offered at 8 p.m. on Wednesdays. Check the latest schedule here.

Family Beaches

Matheson Hammock Park, 9610 Old Cutler Rd., in the Miami suburb of Coral Gables is a favorite retreat for locals with young children because it has a shallow, wave-free lagoon with lifeguards.

On nearby Key Biscayne, Bill Baggs Cape Florida State Park, 1200 Crandon Blvd., has a stretch of stand regularly named one of the Top 10 beaches in the United States. The state park also has a historic lighthouse with tours, two outdoor restaurants, and bike rentals, including surreys that seat four to six people. You can catch a view of Miami's Stiltsville, a collection of wood stilt houses in Biscayne Bay, from the wooded bike path.

In Miami Beach, Sabrina's Adaptive Beach, 6500 Collins Ave., is an accessible beach with an inclusive playground. The park has a tailored, ADA-accessible dune crossing so people of all ages and abilities can enjoy the ocean.

Extraordinary Pools

One of the most beautiful public pools, the historic, 1923 Venetian Pool at 2701 DeSoto Blvd. in Coral Gables is worth the drive to the suburbs. It's a spring-fed coral rock quarry with waterfalls and cave-like grottos patrolled on busy days by lifeguards riding surfboards. It's a diaper-free facility so children under the age of three are not allowed in the park.

If you have a little one, Flamingo Park, 999 11th St., in Miami Beach has the pool for you. Its aquatic center has a zero-depth entry play pool perfect for wading with babies and toddlers.

Young thrill seekers will enjoy the water slides, lazy river and splash pools of Grapeland Water Park, 1550 NW 37th Ave., near Miami International Airport.

Food Culture

Head to Calle Ocho (8th Street) in Little Havana for a taste of Latin cuisine. Versailles, 3555 SW 8th Street, is the mirror-lined, Cuban equivalent of Denny's, with tropical fruit shakes, media noche ham-and-pork sandwiches, croquettes and plantains.

For dessert, sample the Latin-infused scoops at Azucar Ice Cream Company 1503 SW 8th St., known for flavors derived from Cuban coffee, key limes, caramel flan, sweet corn and calabaza. Be sure to snap a family photo in front of the tiny shop's colorful painting of Celia Cruz, the most popular Latin artist of the 20th century, known for her catch phrase, ¡Azúcar! (sugar).

In Miami's Little Haiti neighborhood, the Little Haiti Cultural Complex's Caribbean Marketplace, 5925 NE 2nd Ave., features dishes by Latin and Caribbean celebrity chefs every second Friday of the month.

'Indoor Kid Zones

Seek out air-conditioned fun at Miami's many indoor escapes. Hands-on experiments, a touch tank, planetarium, local birds of prey exhibit and a stunning, three-story aquarium make for an all-ages retreat in downtown Miami at the Frost Museum of Science, 1101 Biscayne Blvd.

Next door at the Perez Art Museum, 1103 Biscayne Blvd., ask at the front desk for a Family Pack, which includes activity sheets, pencil kits, puzzles and scavenger hunts to explore the galleries.

For kids 10 and under, a play cruise ship, supermarket and kid-sized TV studio are part of the fun at Miami Children's Museum, 980 MacArthur Cswy.

Thrill seekers will want to head back to Wynwood for FunDimension, 2129 NW 1st Ct., an indoor playground packed with arcade and virtual reality games, laser tag, bumper cars, and a bungee dome.

Animal Life

Ever felt a giraffe's 18-inch prehensile tongue curl around your hand? At Zoo Miami's Samburu Giraffe Feeding Station, families stand on a tall wooden platform to get eye-to-eye and feed greens by hand to a herd of African giraffes. There are also camel rides and more than 2,000 animals at the cage-free attraction, 12400 SW 152nd St., the largest tropical zoo in the continental United States.

In Everglades National Park, discover alligators, great blue herons and other native species in the wild by renting bikes for the 15-mile, paved trail or taking the two-hour tram tour inside the park's Shark Valley, 36000 SW 8th St., a 50-minute drive from downtown Miami.

Back in the city, Jungle Island eco-adventure park at 1111 Parrot Jungle Trail, between Downtown Miami and South Beach, brings parrots, lemurs, sloths and other animals up close for interactive encounters. There's also a 22-acre rainforest, an 80-foot high zipline and free-flight wind tunnel.

Nearby, Miami Seaquarium, 4400 Rickenbacker Causeway, offers swim-with-dolphin (or seal) encounters, touch pools and sea life exhibits.

PAT KING

We all deserve a vacation. But while certain people have a proclivity towards sandy beaches or bustling cities and cultural epicenters, sometimes those trips can be a little less relaxing than you had initially hoped for. At Coconut Bay Beach Resort & Spa you will find more than sun and sand as you will be able to relax, rejuvenate and turn your vacation into a family spacation Saint Lucian style this summer.

At this award-winning beach resort's Kai Mer Spa, guests will receive treatments using the finest organic, cruelty free products along with local ingredients like coconut oil and cocoa harvested from St. Lucian plantations in the resort's Coconut and Chocolate Scrubs, as well as freshly harvested aloe vera in the resort's Aloe Vera Wrap picked directly from the resort's garden. If you and your partner are both looking to spend your trip unwinding in a similar spa-centric way, you can book a couple's Lava Shell Massage at the oceanfront spa cabana where the spa comes to you. Your kids won't miss out on this special treatment either, as the Children's and Teen's spa menu includes a Princess Mani/Pedi and a Diva Facial that they can enjoy as well.

Adults can further their relaxation outside of the spa with tastings of both local hand-crafted beers and Caribbean Rum before or after taking the whole family for some turtle watching this summer. The resort's Turtle Scout program educates guests about the gorgeous endangered sea turtles of the area and the need for their protection as they lay and hatch eggs along the island's mile-long beach.

While you may be enjoying your relaxing time at the spa or taking your kids on a turtle watching trip, your teens might want to enjoy something that's a little more their speed. With Coconut Bay Beach Resort & Spa's new Teen Club, they will find an assortment of video games and pool tables in the game room and be able to partake in fun activities like the Teen Colors Reggae Beach Party and Bon Fire and the Tree House Party at the resort's poolside Jerk Tree House restaurant.

Every member of your family will find something to enjoy at the resort's Waterpark. If your mind is still set on relaxing to the fullest this vacation, you can kickback and have some fun with standup paddle boarding, kayaking, or simply floating around the Lazy River. If you choose to do a little more than sightsee the beautiful coastline on your paddle board or kayak, you can book a snorkeling trip to head below sea level to say hello to some of Saint Lucia's underwater life. And while you're in one of the world's most picturesque islands you should definitely explore with a visit to the world-famous Pitons, a UNESCO World Heritage Site and the island's unique drive-in volcano and mud baths. For a vacation with an extended family group, the resort's friendly Adventure Desk staff can organize a private sunset catamaran sail or half-day island tour just for you.

Kawhi, Kyrie, A.D. better options for Knicks after Durant knock?

The Kevin Durant injury could force the Knicks to make some new decisions.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

The Knicks are reportedly going to be aggressive in their pursuit of Kawhi Leonard (right) after Kevin Durant's injury. GETTY IMAGES

While the severity of Kevin Durant's Achilles injury is still unknown, so is one of the prospective marquee free-agency sweepstakes of the summer.

The Golden State Warriors star was expected to decline his $31.5 million option and become an unrestricted free agent on Jul. 1. However, an injury that could hold him out for the 2019-20 season could scare away some big players on the market that would have rewarded him with a max contract.

SNY's Ian Begley reported on Wednesday that there are some within the Knicks organization that "would consider offering Durant a contract this summer." Even if he was shelved for an extended period.

It would be a sizable investment to offer a player with a known, serious injury seeing as the Knicks could offer the 30-year-old a max deal of four years worth $141 million.

Durant has been seen as New York's main target for the past year. A player of his caliber would provide the mediocre franchise with the NBA's worst record in 2018-19 with a quick way to get out of the Eastern Conference's cellar.

It's been an excruciating month for such high hopes as 17 wins only got the Knicks the No. 3 pick in the NBA Draft Lottery, meaning they'll miss out on Zion Williamson, before seeing Durant go down in Game 5 of the Finals on Monday night.

Considering the Knicks have two max-salary roster spots available, they will still have a chance to bring on another superstar that could play right away.

It will be a tough sell, however, for a player like Kyrie Irving or Kawhi Leonard to join the Knicks when they know a year of contention would be lost if Durant was out for 2019-20.

While Irving has been linked with the Knicks for just as long as Durant, Begley added that New York will "aggressively pursue" Leonard this summer as well.

There also is a chance that the Knicks could pull off a trade for New Orleans Pelicans center Anthony Davis, who is expected to be traded this summer.

Multiple reports have the Knicks as one of the favorites along with the Los Angeles Lakers for the six-time All-Star. Many believe New York could offer the best trade package, including assets like Kevin Knox, Mitchell Robinson, the rights to RJ Barrett, and draft picks.

With Davis set to hit free agency next summer, securing him would also take up a max-salary slot. That means the Knicks have some options outside of Durant should this injury scare them away.

What you missed at Day 6 of the Women's World Cup

Nigeria is back in the hunt to make the knockout round with a bit of luck.

A South Korean own goal off Kim Doyeon was allowed to stand despite a clear hand ball by Nigeria's Desire Oparanozie in the 29th minute before Asisat Oshoala put the game on ice in the 75th. South Korea is now eliminated.

Germany moved to the top of Group B with its 1-0 win over Spain, who led the foursome after Matchday 1.

Poor defending from Spain's captain and defender Marta Torrejon, who was too slow to clear a ball sitting just outside the left post, was tapped in by a sliding Sara Dabritz in the 42nd minute.

A controversial VAR penalty bailed France out of its second match in Group A play in a 2-1 victory.

Eugenie Le Sommer slotted away the game-winning penalty in the 72nd minute to wipe away defender Wendie Renard's dizzying own goal to let Norway back in a match that the hosts had largely dominated throughout. JOE PANTORNO
